In addition, Anita Renfroe and comedian Henry Cho have teamed up and hit the road with THE MOTHER OF ALL COMEDY TOURS. These two acclaimed comedians have packed their bus full of junk food and wisecracks, and they're headed your way! When "Froe and Cho Bring the Show," you can count on a no holds barred outlook on life's hilarious and crazy moments. The MOTHER OF ALL COMEDY TOURS is headed to:

April 23 Johnson City, TN
April 25 Ft. Wayne, IN April 26 Evansville, IN
April 28 Florence, AL
April 30 Birmingham, AL

Anita Renfroe debuted with her own 3-minute rendition of the William Tell Overture titled "Momisms." This highly celebrated video, summing up all those things a mother says to her children, rapidly acquired an overwhelming 18 MILLION YouTube views catapulting Anita to countless media stops including ABC's Good Morning America, CNBC, Fox and Friends, Dr. Phil, and more. Renfroe's other credits include an ABC sitcom pilot with co-star Ryan Stiles, a New York Times Magazine featured story, the Grand Ole Opry and now on XM's Blue Collar Comedy Channel and Laugh USA. Henry Cho, the quick-witted Tennessean-Korean comic with a slow-burning Southern accent, made his splash into the scene via Comedy Central. This special was filmed in his southern hometown of Knoxville, Tennessee. Being a full-blooded Korean, Cho refers to himself as... well... "South Korean." Henry's TV and film credits include appearances on NBC's The Tonight Show, CBS's The Late, Late, Show, and countless others. He served two years as host of NBC's Friday Night Videos and has made numerous guest appearances on various network sitcoms. Cho's own GAC sitcom, "The Henry Cho Show" debuted in the Fall of 2011.
